Persons Dead in Bed.

Mrs. Annie, widow of the late Edward Twomey, formerly of the vicinity of Granite Hill, was found dead in bed at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles McMaster, near Bonneauville, at 5 o'clock on last Wednesday morning. Mrs. Twomey was in her usual health when she retired on Tuesday evening. When her daughter went to her room the following morning she found the mother cold in death, she having passed peacefully away evidently without a struggle several hours before being discovered. Mrs. Twomey was aged 67 years, and is survived by three sons—Dennis of Gettysburg, James of Chicago, and William of Pittsburg, and four daughters—Mrs. Harry P. Hemler of Brush Run, Mrs. Katie McMaster of Bonneauville, Mrs. Nellie Rosesteel of Round Top, and Mrs. Josephine McBurney of Port Deposit. Mr. Twomey died several years ago.

The Show was Warm And the Departure Hot.

Several men and one woman from our sister borough of Hanover arrived here by team on Saturday evening for the purpose of giving some sort of a performance in Miller's Hall, as had been advertised previously by small bills scattered over town. As the time for the performance arrived a small audience was present. The men of the show, after filling up on "corn juice" made several staggering appearances on the stage and then pronounced the performance ended. The audience present being "faked," and to show the would-be actors and actresses, that "fakes" are not appreciated in New Oxford, they were met with a volley of snow balls as they made their exit from the hall which was kept up on double quick time until they reached the hotel. The "fakers" made several attempts to leave the hotel with their team and each time were forced back by the snow-ball brigade. They finally managed to skip out for their native town amid a hot fire of snow balls, a sadder and perhaps wiser set. It is claimed that there were from 40 to 50 men and boys in the snow-ball brigade.

At last accounts the child was getting along as well as could be expected, though he has suffered great pain.

The Hoffmans are Acquitted.

Mrs. Mary Hoffman and her sons, Jesse and Samuel, of Conewago township, York county, were put on trial Wednesday in the Oyer and terminer court before Judge Bittinger and a jury, charged with the murder of John Brannon, Jr., on the 19th of November of last year. On that day Brannon was shot in the side by Jesse Hoffman, a load of buckshot discharged from a gun, having been emptied into Brannon's side. Brannon lingered at the York hospital for a week or more after the shooting, and finally died. The shooting took place after an altercation between Charles and John Brannon on the one side, and Hoffmans on the other, about the collection of a bill of $1 which the Brannons claimed Mrs. Hoffman owed them.

The work of selecting a jury was finished in record-breaking time the twelve "good men and true" as well as another time that number having been put through the usual course of questioning as to their feelings and prejudices within the space of an hour and a half.

The outline of the testimony upon which the conviction of the defendants will be asked was given to the jury by Assistant District Attorney Stock. He related the incidents which led up to the shooting and said that the Hoffmans and the Brannons were on cordial terms with each other prior to that time.

The first day of the trial ended with practically all the evidence against the defendants brought out. The commonwealth presented a fairly strong case until the last few minutes of court, when Abraham Anderson, one of the commonwealth chief witnesses, practically destroyed the entire fabric upon which the commonwealth had built its case. Mr. Anderson practically proved that which the defendants all along have contended: "That John Brannon, the young man who was shot, entered the Hoffman house intent upon thrashing the entire family, and as he was a big stockily fellow, the Hoffmans, who are small and mere boys, had but one chance and that was the gun," which was used with deadly effect.

Jesse Hoffman, who fired the fatal shot, said, in part, as follows: "After the fight in the road John Brannon followed me into the house with a club in his hand, crying, 'I'll kill you.' He fought me to the corner where the gun was and I grabbed it and shot him. The gun was held close to his left side. After John was shot, he said: 'Sam, drag me out, it don't hurt.' My brother then dragged John out on the porch and laid him down."

This story was corroborated by Samuel Hoffman, a brother, and Mrs. Mary Hoffman, the mother of the two boys. The case was given to the jury at 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon and at a continued session of court at 7:30 Friday evening they had agreed upon a verdict, which was read at 7:30, and acquitted the trio on the charge of murder.

Upon hearing the verdict acquitting them of the crime which calls for death as the penalty, the Hoffman boys advanced to the jury box and grasped by the hand each of the men who had been empaneled to judge of their guilt.

Mrs. Hoffman has been released from custody. Her sons, Jesse and Samuel, have been returned to jail to await trial on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill. Bail for them has been fixed at $500 and there is a possibility of a bondsman being found, in which event they will be granted their freedom until they are called for trial.
